

DM 745 Decolonizing Spiritualities Summer 2023 (In Person)

Instructor: Rev. Esther E. Acolatse, Ph. D

In what ways have spiritualities, how people experience themselves and make meaning as spiritual beings in relation to God, been colonized since Christendom and the exploratory voyages that are the result of the errant Doctrine of Discovery? What ways were the spiritualities of indigenous peoples suppressed, demonized and jettisoned and replaced with a faith by which many could not find meaning resulting in ill-fitting syncretistic spiritualities in private and public life whether in the form of shamanistic Christianities (e.g., Candomblé and strands of Afro-Brazilian Religions or the Afrikania Mission) or Christian Nationalism and its various strands? The ways in which assumed orthodoxy, tied to colonialism, occupies and determines the spiritual ethos of other people's religious experience and expression largely through what is presented as true knowledge of God or proper theology, will be analyzed and critiqued. Ultimately the course aims at disrupting the unequal production of knowledge and thus power that continues to occupy cultures and by extension various spiritual spaces in order to help people reclaim their spiritual narratives as legitimate and equal partner in creating sustainable spiritualities for a global world.

Learning Objectives

Students will be able to articulate the character and nature of decolonial and indigenous thought, its history, intellectual trajectories, and concerns.

Students will be able to analyze the status of the Christian theological structures of decolonial and indigenous theologies and spiritualities.

Students will be able to outline a theological method that draws from decolonial and indigenous frameworks of thought to aid in the practice of ministry in various settings.

COURSE FORMAT

This is a seminar built on reading, brief class presentation, and discussion.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS AND GRADING POLICIES

1. Attendance and Participation

Attendance, promptness, and participation in class are required. My expectation is that there will be no missed days, late arrivals, or poor participation. Should you have personal or family emergencies, please let me know. You will not be penalized for such matters, but I require notification and a conversation.

2. Class Presentations

Each member of the class will make two very short presentations reviewing the assigned reading for the day. Each presentation (approximately 2 pages max!). Usually, two people will be assigned to make presentations for each assigned book and/or essay.

FINAL PROJECTS

You will write a research paper (25-35 pages.) The topic of the paper will be determined in consultation with me. It will take one of the following three forms that focus on decolonizing spiritualities:

- a. With special attention to insights from decolonizing spiritualities gleaned from readings and course work, design a creative spiritual direction tool kit for your particular context that frees and empowers people toward spiritual maturity.
- b. Articulate a theologically contextual, biblically grounded, culturally relevant understanding of the nature and purpose of leadership anchored in a commitment to social justice with a decolonized spirituality prong.
- c. Critically reflect upon social and theological diversity and the complexities of leadership in a multiethnic and religiously plural world. How may decolonized spiritual practices lead to forming citizens for the common good?

3.! Due Dates and Percentages

Participation	15%
Presentations	35%
Research Paper	50% Due end of September
